

2006 CLOVERDALE RODEO & COUNTRY FAIR TO FEATURE LARGEST HORTICULTURAL DISPLAY IN ITS HISTORY

For Immediate Release

Surrey, B.C.: What has grown into one of the more popular attractions at the Cloverdale Rodeo and Country Fair will feature more exhibits than ever before. The horticultural displays, featuring a number of local gardening clubs, will have more spectacular plants on display than anytime in the past 117 years.

"We're very excited about this coming year," says Horticultural Committee Co-Chairperson Charlene Bayer. "The displays will be especially beautiful and will feature a large range of plant varieties."

Clubs from around the Lower Mainland and Fraser Valley will show their spectacular exhibits, with species ranging from begonias to bonsais, plus numerous others in competing in the open classes.

Visitors to the 2006 Country Fair will be able to stop and smell the roses both inside and outside the Alice McKay building, where displays from competitors and clubs will be featured.
